

A rectangle measures 20cm at its length and 6 cm at its width. If the rectangle is dilated (increases in size but proportions stay the same) and the new rectangle's perimeter is 130 cm, what is the length of its width?

Use the 4-step problem-solving model to solve. Extra space on next page if needed.

| | |
|--------------|--------------|
| See | Plan |
| Solve | Check |

